I have literally tied thousands of flies with these hooks, and only ever had one issue. The flies have been fished all over the country as well, and in different conditions. I have personally fished them with real feel temperatures of -2 and never noticed any brittleness in the hooks. I think I had caused the single issue when I pinched the barb on the hook, making the hook brittle. Now that they have barbless, that should be a non issue as well.

GREAT company, and great customer service. They elped me out with an auction I had put together for a young girl with cancer. Can't say enough about them and thank them for helping me out.

You should not be disappointed, and If you have any issues bring it up with them, they will do what they can to resolve your problem.

I too enjoy their barbless hooks, and have had more then one pentrate into my finger. DEEP
