A good waitress can make 60-100+ dollars from tips in a night of serving. You're the only one giving that guide a tip for the day, and you can't throw him 40 bucks for 8 hours of his time? That $400 is for a float trip almost certainly. Drift boats are expensive. Gas is expensive. And you have a guide service taking their cut out of that as well. Again, you know that tipping is expected. If you can't afford to add a tip or just don't want to, then either fish on your own or book a cheaper guide. Don't rely on others giving generous tips so you can get away with stiffing someone.
