

---

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Guide Tipping

Re: Guide Tipping

Author: : geebee

Date: : 2013/7/24 17:36:50

URL:

Quote:

Pontus wrote:

Like it or not, tips provide an incentive for excellent service which is why they are expected but variable.

but that's the point - they shouldn't be an incentive and often they are expected at a rate that is not very variable
- a $100 tip for one day ???

and i hear ya about getting a cheaper guide or DIY.

but I don't think demand sets guide rates either - more taking advantage of wealthy noobs ( which caveat empton fair enough..) who don't know any better and probably get referred by the local orvis store anyway which pushes prices up for everyone.

and i'm not picking on Orvis; frontiers, yellowdog, fishingbreaks etc etc all do it too.

why else are people paying $1100 to chase BFT off stellwagon Bank right now ?

imagine the freaking tip for that !