I have recently had my one and only guide experience. They are a forum member and was more than pleased with thier service, knowledge, steam side manner, teaching ability, Etc. I paid $200 for the outing, and tipped $40. I actually wish I had more disposable funds to tip him because the information I gained was invaluable. I do believe that $40 was an acceptable tip but probably on the low end of fair. I hope to hire a steelhead guide and go on a guided spring outing and will likely tip at around the same percentage.
