One thing to remember - those ducks likely live there also. And the fish - even wild ones - get used to them. Spring creek has lots of ducks around on most of it's sections. And they're constantly swimming and splashing around some of my favorite holes. I've seen them swim right over rising fish, and it doesn't seem to faze them much. Many times, they just keep right on rising. And if they are put down, they usually start coming up again shortly afterward.
