From the Picture it appears as though it did indeed break...

Is there a Piece of Graphite in the tip top?

If so it can be removed and possibly reattached... Though the tube may be too small. If it is too small just get a new tip top a size larger and use tip top cement to reattach

If that is thread and finish I see on the rod it can be removed with a little heat and scrape it with your fingernail

If it just came off it can just be heated gently till the glue softens and reattach
