Guys, i rarely fish. This year, no times yet. Last year, i believe 3 times.
When i fish, i fish winged wets and simple nymphs, hare's ear, pheasant tail etc.

There are plenty of variations of nymph patterns available.

The salmon flies i tie pretty much for fun. I know there's not a lot of call for them in these parts.

If i was tying them for fishing, i'd tie them on eyed hooks, and with the same materials and attention to detail as on the flies i've posted.

If there are any common patterns you want to see tied by me, just list them, and i'll tie them.
