Money to be used for protection of this amazing urban fishery. You can donate if you can't attend. This river has the ability to cultivate hundreds of new fly fishing kids being centrally located in Scranton, and many small urban towns throughout the Lackawanna valley. It has a trophy trout section that is 5 miles and has Class A designation, despite running past many businesses and thousands of houses.

Relatively recently, there have been frack water withdrawals and now a salt storage facility going in on the lower river, where, as it turns out, a lot of 20 inchers live, despite hotter water. The salt facility is being contested by this chapter and maybe TU.
