Big Spring has large native brookies...

This is true, there are several spring creeks (CV) that probably have some this size, but I'm talking about a freestone stream. That's what makes this native so rare. Like I said, in 30+ years of chasing wild trout, I've yet to see it's equal. Once in Sullivan county in the early 2000's I saw saw one that was around 16", but this one was a good bit bigger.

The creek I'm referring to is a very small freestone. It would not surprise me to find several 13"+ in this creek. It is such a PIA to get to, it sees minimal pressure (some I'm sure, but minimal). Need to get over there again.
