

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Articuled dace

Re: Articuled dace

Author: : jeremymcon

Date: : 2013/7/29 21:58:52

URL:

Nice. I need to try to tie a couple articulated streamers. I read the post in the WW section about the "gamechanger" fly. Lol. I think the name is a little over the top, but it is a cool idea to use multiple articulation points.

The step that makes me nervous about these patterns is tying in a mono loop to attach the second hook/articulated spine to. Is just tying it in like any other material really strong enough if a fish takes the hook at the end of the pattern? How do you attach everything together?