I bought the Orvis Safe Passage tri-pack in the spring - the reddish color was on sale for something like $80.00. Although I have yet to use it I can assure you it is no where near large enough to carry waders and boots. I bought it for long day trips where I want to pack food, water and a rain jacket or extra layer. Maybe you should check LL Bean although I can tell you that convertible backpack/vest thing they sell won't do what you want either. I bought one of those and returned it in the same day.
