Thanks for the good review Alby. These reels have been doing very well since we brought them out. We have a good handful of guides all over the country using them every day with their clients and they just rave about them. There's a good handful of other memers on this board who own one as well. A machined aluminum reel with a nice cork drag is hard to come by at this price. They really do perform! We hope to bring out spare spools and other color options in the future as well.
