There are a zillion options. Opt for something with a large arbor and a sealed drag system. You can find that by many manufacturers at reasonable prices.

Do you have anything like that Ryan at Risen Fly?

Check out our Anakim reels. They have a rubber O ring to seal the drag around the drag knob. It's completely waterproof, which is also important when dealing with steelhead fishing as it won't freeze in the low temperatures that can be common for steelhead fishing. For a machined aluminum reel with a sealed drag, it's really quite affordable. Also all paflyfish members get an extra 15% off with code "paff"
