MC. Just a handful of Isos but they would eat them in the riffs if you prospected. The large bug I was referring to is some sort of steno. Mottled wings and something like a cahill.

I completely 100% agree with your comment about long leaders. My leaders sometimes get to the point where they are pushing 18' on that system. Long leaders allow for long drifts and maximum time for your fly to be on the water. Good luck if you hit it.
