I had a fish I caught repeatedly over a few years with 3 spots. All perfectly in a row. Looked like Orion's belt, haha. Same lie every time.

Skuke trib, and I know you've fished the stream many times.

I've never seen a NW PA fish with a single row. But some of them don't have a lot of spots. I have seen single row patterns in both the D and Susquehanna drainages, quite frequently actually.

I've seen fish, in all drainages, with a whole lot of spots, but I don't think I ever counted 6 rows. Though at that point I might just take it to be random orientation rather than rowed.
