Was fishing Valley yesterday afternoon, and ran into 4 guys when I was leaving (I was near the Iron Bridge) who work for the PA Department of Conservation and Natural Resources. They had 5 browns in a tank, and they said they were testing them for PCB's. They said they were going to kill the largest one (about 14") and do a more thorough test I geuss. I was just curious why they would be doing this, as the stream is obviously doing fine. Is this something they do yearly?
