IMHO Kistler Run is too small to fish, however if you must fish it, sneak up on the locations you want to fish, you may have to crawl, but then drop the fly into the water without casting.

An AMD stream I fished last Thursday was too tight to cast, so I just pulled out some line and flipped the fly into the water or, dropped it in, one fish came out from under a big boulder and took my fly was 11 inches. All the other fish were small.
