Funny - I thought the same thing Ryan. I work with some of those guys and it just seems stupid to me that they do that. And do it when water is low and HOT! Might as well keep all the ones they goof with. Why not wait for a cool day or better?

Plus, who cares if the PCB levels have gone down a bit or not at all. Just leave it C&R and quit messin' with it...

They always have more casualties than reported and it is a shame.
