Yeah a friend of mine told me about that also. I do cast fair with my left arm and I'm sure I could get out and fish some of the smaller waters but, as far as the J or the LJ and bigger waters I worry about falling. It would suck to take a fall on the bank or in the water and have to fight my way to standing again with just my left arm with a fly rod in it. Yeah I know let go of the rod.... I'd have to be going down for the 3rd time for that to happen. I'll hold off a bit yet and let things heal up. Fall is coming. I'm think'n Spruce for starters. Thanks for the heads up on the Kreh article.
