It grand opens next week(august 18th, I think). Yep, its owned by Dick's and will carry higher end gear like yeti, simms, whatever other high quality brand you want to associate with fishing. Its primary focus is fishing, hunting, and camping. I know some people who work at dick's, but I havent questioned them too much about it. Its in cranberry, and Im in the south hills. Still hoping for the basspro/field and stream location in washington. I do the majority of my fly tying shopping online, but I wouldnt mind more retail options within driving distance.
