i will send allen an email to see if things can get straightened out as i would like to order more hooks but i'm a little gun shy on trust.

if it can get worked out then there might be more orders.....we'll see. maybe ordering in small quantity of items might be better.

i will still say that you should ALWAYS check the invoice for correctness of your order regardless of who you buy from online

Give the guy a chance. I think you will find that Allen is big on customer service and support. Where I have never had any issues with them, I have NO DOUBT they would make good on any issue if I ever had one. I plan to buy most of my hooks from them and was excited to see that smaller sizes are coming. I mean seriously, his hooks are quality, half the price of the other guys and free shipping. I know I'm not perfect and only hope that people give me a chance to correct my mistakes.
