I did well on deer hair emergers for Isos on the upper D...fish were absolutely inhaling them...and I did witness one pop out of its shuck on the water. They can be a different color when they hatch. The ones I saw looked tannish...when I ran out of flies I used big march brown chutes (Penns style) and got into fish as well. This wasn't the case on other waters though were only big wets got the nod with some strippage
