thank you for your concern

it was simply not knowing on my part that a new number designation replaced an older number designation. the invoice i received made no mention of changed number designations. all has been corrected all is good with allen and i too will continue to buy hooks from them especially the barbless hooks.

this is not the only forum allen posts on as i have seen them on other forums however with everything all cleared up, i will continue to check each and every invoice i receive from everybody i order from online. everybody should be aware of what they are receiving.
