

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Acid Rain and Un-surveyed streams

Re: Acid Rain and Un-surveyed streams

Author: : FarmerDave

Date: : 2013/8/7 7:19:28

URL:

Quote:

PAgeologist wrote:

Well, if the Millstone watershed is worthwhile (if it meets our criteria), I may end up doing some projects there to get it restored some day. If it is part of the Allegheny or Ohio River basins its my area. Right now, I got a major one on the Blacklick in Indiana County and several others that I am a part of. Once some of those clear out, I will be looking to pick up some new ones.

Maybe I will take a trip up there soon to check it out just to get out of the office.

Trib of the Clarion so it is indeed the same Basin.

But IMO a more worthwhile stream would be Tobey Creek, the one in Clarion County. Not the one in Elk and Jefferson Counties which has already seen significant improvement. There has been some work done, but still a long way to go.