For the adults to consent is one thing. Yeah, they make their own decisions. But to impose the gag on the kids is another. Who's responsible for a child's actions? The parents. But as a parent myself I know for a fact kids are going to say what they want, when they want and parents are not always going to be around. So if they start complaining about Range Resources -- how they are the ones who made their head hurt -- in school and word gets out, Range Resources will go after the kids? Get real, Range Resources. You won't be able to gag a kid and it was sleezy of that company to drag them into it... slimier than frack fluid.
