Well, I had a young un along which cut my angling time by 50% or more. It also cost me a rod and a entire nymph collection of flies #16-#20. Half way through the 4th day, I was maxed and handed the kid off to Tom. The weather was cool but straight sun and wind. That killed much of the rising. Nothing to be jealous of there.

You've got DaveS and the crew in Pittsburgh area. They've taken fish exceeding 25" in that river. Touch base with them. There's a chance to get some help or maybe find an open seat if they have another cluster Yough float.
