

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Need help with a downstream approach

Need help with a downstream approach

Author: : HopBack

Date: : 2013/8/10 21:22:54

URL:

I know it's less than ideal but I need help with a downstream approach. I came across a hole that has a large tree down the middle of it and I can't sneak up behind the trout and cast over it because the tree is too high. I also can't cast under it because there are vines growing down from the fallen tree. Every time I try to cast to the fish I seem to spook them. Normally I would just pass up a hole like that after a few tries but this particular hole contains really nice sized rainbow which I'm determined to catch ; ).

How do you guys approach a hole when you can cast upstream?