Kray, my friend was a random guy from Craigslist I met in a parking lot. I'm not sure he is interested in fixing my problems, judging by his response when I emailed about the warranty with St Croix. He also lives roughly 2 hours away and the gas and tolls would be as much as a new tip.

I know a new tip is $30. But it will be the second one in about 2 months. At that rate, I could buy a much nicer rod new and have the lifetime warranty. Although the salesman at Cabela's said there would still be a $20 or so cost for shipping with most companies.
