I've used 8wt. rods for salmon for 20 years. Have never had a fish break one. I've taken guys up there that never had a fly rod in their hand and they had no problem landing salmon with an 8wt. If they are foul hooked, don't try to land it, just break it off. BTW the heaviest tippet I ever use is 12lb test and most of the time I use 6lb test because I'm fishing for trout. I have landed many salmon with 6lb test. One salmon weighed in at 23.5lbs that was landed with the 6lb. I was in the Archer's Club tournament, that's how I know the exact weight.
