phriend, another question for ya? i know you are new like i am, what's the chance you clipped the tip of the rod at some point with a fly? i know in my case that's exactly what i did with both my redington and my buddies st croix that i broke. though this time with my st croix yeah i'm a moron and shut it in the door...

casting can be costly especially with larger flies like clousers, ht efly that i clipped both my rods with. clip it once and that graphite becomes a time bomb.
