Thank you all for the responses! I appreciate the warning about trespass laws, and private bits of the Blue River in Silverthorne and elsewhere.

Luckily, the town has a map of public access for fishing the Blue on their website, which probably means it's a high pressure place, but I doubt it sees more pressure than my favorite local spot.

The State also maintains a pretty amazing online fishing atlas that is integrated with Google Maps. I'm going to use that as a starting point for questions at local fly shops. I'll probably stick to special regulations waters, and the parks, and hopefully make friends with a local or two along the way.
