For small stream fishing I recommend a 7 1/2 foot, 4 wt. You can get them in 4 piece or 5 piece rods, so they pack down small.

I prefer medium to fast action rods rather than the slow action rods, but that is very much up to the preference of the caster.

Test cast any rod before buying. There is no right or wrong....just different in rod preferences. Different (casting) strokes for different folks.

Again, try before you buy. Better yet, borrow different type rods and actually fish with them, if possible.

Lol...with all that said, I've landed in the same place as Troutbert (above) with respect to the type of rod I prefer for small stream fishing.
