kray,

Baetis variety BWO's have 3 tails and plain (non-mottled) wings. Drunella variety BWO's also have plain wings, and are much larger. I'm better at ruling out genus's than I am at identifying the proper one. :)

But, a steno is a possibility. The last two definitely have 2 tails, mottled wings. That narrows it down to these genus's:

heptagenia
leucrocuta
litobranca
maccaffertium
nix
rhithrogena
siphloplecton
stenacron
stenonema

Can't tell for sure on the 1st one whether the wings are mottled or not.
