All I do is wait until I have to do something, like tie on a new tippet section or something. I toss it in a spot, on top of a rock submerged about elbow's length in the shade, so that it's easy to retrieve. I do my business. Afterwards I pick it up and take a reading.

I'm guessing your streams out there are in the 50's. Our smaller waters are always fine. And we're having a great summer, even some of the medium and larger waters are doing fine too.
