Honestly, you guys are making me think more and more about going a little heavier to a 4-weight, but it will probably have to wait for a future purchase. I'm kind of stuck in that I have an Orvis Battenkill #1 reel ready to the job - 2/3 wt - and would rather not have to also buy a reel right now. Then again, I could overline the 4 wt. rod with some 5wt line, or which I also have a reel ready to go.
