

---

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Wiconisco Cr. Dauphin Co

Re: Wiconisco Cr. Dauphin Co

Author: : Swattie87

Date: : 2013/8/21 10:56:09

URL:

Good sound advice from Jack above on exploring new areas in general. Always a good idea to have a few options/back up plans in case your target stream/area is a dud.

As far as Wiconisco, yes most of the main stem warms too much for Trout...probably decent SM fishing, especially as you get closer to the mouth though. There are some wild trout (all Brookies I think) further upstream in the watershed. Explore the Rattling Creek drainages above the reservoir...small streams, tight fishing, and they're recovering AMD streams, but they're cold year round.