

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Help with casting bigger streamers

Re: Help with casting bigger streamers

Author: : Fishwagen

Date: : 2013/8/22 6:07:30

URL:

That was my next thought as well. When I was having the problem yesterday I had just tied on a fresh section of 5x and then then a black bugger. Worked just fine, but as I stepped up to a little more weighted cray pattern w some split shot, then the problems occurred.

There are just so many little variables that the novice has to learn in this sport. And as many have already said...experiment!

J55...your right as well, I slammed the water on a couple of casts so bad it looked like a dropped a rock from about 20'. I didn't blame the fish, I would have swam for cover too.