

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Salmon River

Re: Salmon River

Author: : odizz17

Date: : 2013/8/22 10:08:32

URL:

Heading up with my uncle Sept 22-23. Please forgive my ignorance on the subject as I've only been up there once when I was about 17. And that was with a spinning rod bouncing egg sacs off the bottom. Needless to say, I didn't do very well lol. Will these salmon actually hit a swung fly or an egg pattern? I've read that the males will in fact eat the eggs, but not females. I've also read that they will hit out of aggression. However, I've also heard that the only way to catch them is "flossing" or "lifting" which just sounds like a nice way of intentionally snagging them in the face? Can anyone with any experience please shed some light on this for me?