I remember looking at that site when I was researching my visit. I also recall a site (I think run by the GC chamber of commerce or some regulatory agency) that had a map of the island showing where fishing was and wasn't allowed. There are complex fishing rules on the island and they're different for tourists vs locals. Some of the beaches were marine protected areas where no fishing or no harvest was allowed (if I recollect correctly). Sounds like you're doing your homework. Good luck with the trip, let us know how you made out.

I've got some pics, I'll try to find and post them this evening when I've got some more time.
