Yeah, I have 3 pair of Hodgeman, 1 pair of Cabelas, and 3 pairs of Orvis in my past.

Those ranged from about $80 to $250. But the roughly $100 per leak free year rule has proven true on all of the above.

The Beans are in their second year. No leaks yet, but haven't reached $100/year yet, so the jury is still out.

All the "have the best" guys love Simms. I'm sure they're nice waders. But with the price, they'd better last a long time to beat the $100 per leak free year thing. If they merely meet it like the others, I'd rather go cheaper and replace more often.
