

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : New 10 ft 7 for Erie Steel

Re: New 10 ft 7 for Erie Steel

Author: : PennypackFlyer

Date: : 2013/8/27 10:10:43

URL:

Double check the backing on the reel and make sure you have enough for that reel. By having it spooled properly, will help to insure its weight to the butt end of the rod and make it easier to cast.

I used to self spool and not put enough backing on. All my rods felt heavy when I did it myself.

If that doesn't work maybe you only need a new reel to better balance the 10' 7wt that you have. That might just make all the difference you need.