Krayfish,

I prefer a rod that has some power but a delicate tip that offers versatility of usage. I really would love to try out a scott radian and have held a helios2 which is awesome...but I don't want to drop that cash now. How close with the legend elite be to a winston biiix? I have casted one of them and while it seemed nice, it might be too soft to be an all around stick...if such a rod does exist.
