Yup. Add tippet. I know when I first started fly fishing I thought I would just buy new leaders instead of tippet. Now I have spools of 2x through 6x that I have with me most of the time. If you really want to be cheap, you can use the heavier tippets (2x) to help rebuild a leader that you've cut back too far. Though tippet rings will prevent that. I now use tippet rings most of the time - I know you can get them for pretty cheap from Cabela's, as well as bearsden.com.
