+1 on the heavier leader - I use 12-14lb test for bass.

You might want to try a different popper. I don't like the ones that have a cupped face that is slanted. These heads often produce a fly that, when you pull it up to cast, will immediately spin like a propeller. Try a popper with a flush front that isn't slanted, these work better for me. I threw out all my slant head poppers years ago and won't go back.
