

Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Little Juniata, Huntingdon Co, 8-19-13 and 8/20/13 Re: Little Juniata, Huntingdon Co, 8-19-13 and 8/20/13

Author: : Dobeitz

Date: : 2013/8/31 16:28:26

URL:

The water temp was low 60s when fish were taken. I am aware of the 30 second rule and not a single one of these was out for more than 15 (yes, I count). I also purposely kick water up to the rocks. Any fish that, when in the net, appears as though it will flop like crazy does not get in a photo. I take great care to ensure healthy return.

If there was an unethical fisherman on the river that day it wasn't me. Perhaps it was the guy I saw that took fish and put them in a cooler. If you have more judgement to pass out you can direct it elsewhere.

ETA: a scale getting knocked off and subsequently infection setting in could happen at any time in the fish's life and definitely during the fight to land it = not a very good argument.