

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Product review - Creek Company Voyager

Re: Product review - Creek Company Voyager

Author: : TimMurphy

Date: : 2013/9/4 10:03:00

URL:

Dear chromefinder,

I'm not sure how I got that price to be honest?

I had received an email from Creek Company promoting their sale price of $ 299.00 when they offered 50% off earlier this summer. I was interested at that price but decided I wanted to actually see one before I bought it.

I called Cabela's and they said they had a new one that was clearanced priced at $ 199.99. I said, "Are you sure that is the price?" The clerk said, "Yes" so I gave them a credit card number over the phone and drove up the next day to get it.

It may have been because I used a Cabela's Visa and I am a Cabela's Club member that I got such a good price, and they may have made a mistake, but I wasn't about to ask questions, I just scooped it up once they verified the price.

It's going to take some creative work to mount a depthfinder on it but I'll have ice fishing season to work on that!

Regards,

Tim Murphy 😊