I agree that 3 would be better.

But 2 would be better still. At the Trout Summit, back in the 1990s, Dick Snyder said you'd have to drop the limit to 2 per day to have a substantial effect. That is probably correct.

In MD the limit on wild trout (unstocked) waters is 2 per day.

So, is that where the PFBC is going with this study? A limit of 2 or 3 per day?

If not, then where is it headed? What was the intent?
