

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Just call me Lefty....

Re: Just call me Lefty....

Author: : FiveWeight

Date: : 2013/9/6 7:06:08

URL:

Quote:

KeithS wrote:

I made it through the surgery. The bicep tendon was "pretty beat up", quoting the surgeon. The rotator cuff wasn't too bad, so they had to fix the bicep and one other tendon. The pain was pretty bad after everything wore off. Oxycodone sucks. I'll manage the rest of the time with acetaminophin and ibuprofen. i got really bad hiccups along with the oxy buzz. The buzz was dealable, but I couldn't sleep due to the hiccups. Today, the pain is worse, but as they say-"Pain is weakness leaving the body."

Good to hear you came through it alright. Glad to hear you cam manage the pain with acetaminophin and ibuprofen. The pain I had, that stuff wouldn't have touched it. I was take'n acetaminophin with codeine a week prior to the surgery just so I could get a project finished up before the surgery. Told doc he was gonna earn his money on this one. I was gonna abuse the crap out of it before the surgery. He just laughed. You'll be back at it in no time. Don't know what you do for a living but, I can swing a hammer but not like I want to, Still limited in lifting but just figure out other ways to do things.. Keep us posted.