

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Brookie versus Brownie habitat ?

Re: Brookie versus Brownie habitat ?

Author: : geebee

Date: : 2013/9/6 14:58:06

URL:

Quote:

Foxgap239 wrote:

Quote:

PACOFRANSICO wrote:

Another thing ya have to take into account when talking habitats is water PH.

Agreed. Brookies are more tolerant of acidic water.

Again, most of the peaty stained rivers & Loughs in Scotland and Ireland produce very big brown trout - so i'm not sure its PH but more like lack of food or suitable habitat.

i don't think i've caught many brownies in open low clear water either...