The casting competition at the Carlisle Sports and Outdoor Show was held today.

This event was sponsored by CVTU and Bass Pro Shops. It consisted of two parts - an accuracy casting portion, and a distance/accuracy portion.

PAFF had two of its members competing in this event - Tim Robinson and Old Lefty. Tim was entered in the amateur division, and Old Lefty was in the pro division.

During the pre-event practice session, it became obvious that the swirling winds were going to play a factor. Tough casting, for sure. Whoever managed to overcome the conditions best was likely to win.

Tim Robinson was the first competitor to start - each caster had to do the accuracy section, and then move on to the distance section.

Tim was very low key and relaxed - he didn't think he'd do well, and wished he'd practiced more. He calmly posted the highest score on the accuracy section (three way tie) - out of both amateurs and pros!

Tim won his division, and had the second highest score overall.

Great casting, Tim, and congratulations!
